

Christian Morgenstern, El Hechicero	Christian Morgenstern, Der Werwolf	Christian Morgenstern, The Banshee (An Approach)	Christian Morgenstern, The Werewolf
tradukita de Hans Eiseneck		tradukita de Max Knight	tradukita de Alexander Gross
Un hechicero, con esposa vino un día a la fosa de su maestro, y al profesor pidió: “¿Me cuentas? ¡Por favor!”	Ein Werwolf eines Nachts entwich von Weib und Kind und sich begab an eines Dorfschullehrers Grab und bat ihn: „Bitte, beuge mich!“	One night, a banshee slunk away from mate and child, and in the gloom went to a village teacher’s tomb, requesting him: “Infect me, pray.”	A Werewolf, troubled by his name, Left wife and brood one night and came To a hidden graveyard to enlist The aid of a long-dead philologist.
El profesor sin vacilar subió y comenzó a hablar. Desde allá de su letrero se dirigió al hechicero:	Der Dorfschulmeister stieg hinauf auf seines Blechschilds Messingknäuf und sprach zum Wolf, der seine Pfoten geduldig kreuzte vor dem Toten:	The village teacher climbed up straight upon his grave stone with its plate and to the apparition said who meekly knelt before the dead:	“Oh sage, wake up, please don’t berate me,” He howled sadly, “Just conjugate me.” The seer arose a bit unsteady Yawned twice, wheezed once, and then was ready.
“El hechicero” le explica, “el hechidos” después indica, “el hechitres” dice al fin, “con eso basta ¡chiquitín!”	„Der Werwolf“ – sprach der gute Mann, „des Werwolfs, Genitiv sodann, dem Werwolf, Dativ, wie man’s nennt, den Werwolf, - damit hat’s ein End!“	“The banSHEE, in the subject’s place; the banHERS, the possessive case. The banHER, next, is what they call objective case—and that is all.”	“Well, ‘Werewolf’ is your plural past, While ‘Waswolf’ is singularly cast: There’s ‘Amwolf’ too, the present tense, And ‘Iswolf,’ ‘Arewolf’ in this same sense.”
El hechicero, conmovido por lo que capta su oído, al maestro ruega, encantado, que le adjunte un quebrado.	Dem Werwolf schmeichelten die Fälle er rollte seine Augenbälle. „Indessen“, bat er, „füge doch zur Einzahl auch die Mehrzahl noch!“	The banshee marveled at the cases and writhed with pleasure, making faces, but said: “You did not add, so far, the plural to the singular!”	“I know that—I’m no mental cripple— The future form and participle Are what I crave,” the beast replied. The scholar paused—again he tried:
...	...	...	...

Pero el profesor confiesa que nada sabe con certeza: "Hay muchos he- chos. Hechice- ros únicamente hay enteros."	Der Dorfschullehrer aber musste gestehn, dass er von ihr nichts wusste. Zwar Wölfe gab's in großer Schar, doch „Wer“ gab's nur im Sinular.	The teacher, though, admitted then that this was not wi- thin his ken. "While bans are fre- quent", he advised, "A she cannot be pluri- zed."	"A 'Will-be-wolf?' It's just too long: 'Shall-be-wolf?' 'Has-been- wolf?' Utterly wrong! Such words are wounds beyond all suture- I'm sorry, but you have no future."
El brujo se volvió muy triste: "Mi cara mitad, ¿no la viste?" Ya que no era sa- bio con gratitud se despidió.	Der Wolf erhob sich tränenblind – er hatte ja doch Weib und Kind! Doch da er keine Ge- lehrter eben, so schied er dankend und ergeben.	The banshee, rising clammily, wailed: "What about my family?" Then, being not a lear- ned creature, said humbly "Thanks" and left the teacher.	The Werewolf knew better-his sons still slept At home, and homewards now he crept, Happy, humble, without apology For such folly of philology.
