

Christian Morgenstern, El Hechicero	Christian Morgenstern, The Werewolf	Christian Morgenstern, Der Werwolf	Christian Morgenstern, The Banshee (An Approach)
tradukita de Hans Eiseneck	tradukita de Alexander Gross		tradukita de Max Knight
Un hechicero, con esposa vino un día a la fosa de su maestro, y al profesor pidió: “¿Me cuentas? ¡Por favor!”	A Werewolf, troubled by his name, Left wife and brood one night and came To a hidden graveyard to enlist The aid of a long-dead philologist.	Ein Werwolf eines Nachts entwich von Weib und Kind und sich begab an eines Dorfschullehrers Grab und bat ihn: „Bitte, beuge mich!“	One night, a banshee slunk away from mate and child, and in the gloom went to a village teacher’s tomb, requesting him: “Inflect me, pray.”
El profesor sin vacilar subió y comenzó a hablar. Desde allá de su letrero se dirigió al hechicero:	“Oh sage, wake up, please don’t berate me,” He howled sadly, “Just conjugate me.” The seer arose a bit unsteadily Yawned twice, wheezed once, and then was ready.	Der Dorfschulmeister stieg hinauf auf seines Blechschildes Messingknäuf und sprach zum Wolf, der seine Pfoten geduldig kreuzte vor dem Toten:	The village teacher climbed up straight upon his grave stone with its plate and to the apparition said who meekly knelt before the dead:
“El hechicero” le explica, “el hechidos” después indica, “el hechitres” dice al fin, “con eso basta ¡chiquitín!”	“Well, ‘Werewolf’ is your plural past, While ‘Waswolf’ is singularly cast: There’s ‘Amwolf’ too, the present tense, And ‘Iswolf,’ ‘Aewolf’ in this same sense.”	„Der Werwolf“ – sprach der gute Mann, „des Werwolfs, Genitiv sodann, dem Werwolf, Dativ, wie man’s nennt, den Werwolf, - damit hat’s ein End!“	“The banSHEE, in the subject’s place; the banHERS, the possessive case. The banHER, next, is what they call objective case—and that is all.”
El hechicero, conmovido por lo que capta su oído, al maestro ruega, encantado, que le adjunte un quebrado.	“I know that—I’m no mental cripple— The future form and participle Are what I crave,” the best replied. The scholar paused—again he tried:	Dem Werwolf schmeichelten die Fälle er rollte seine Augenbälle. „Indessen“, bat er, „füge doch zur Einzahl auch die Mehrzahl noch!“	The banshee marveled at the cases and writhed with pleasure, making faces, but said: “You did not add, so far, the plural to the singular!”

Pero el profesor confiesa que nada sabe con certeza: "Hay muchos he- chos. Hechice- ros únicamente hay enteros."	"A 'Will-be-wolf?' It's just too long: 'Shall-be-wolf?' 'Has-been- wolf?' Utterly wrong! Such words are wounds beyond all suture— I'm sorry, but you have no future."	Der Dorfschullehrer aber musste gestehn, dass er von ihr nichts wusste. Zwar Wölfe gab's in großer Schar, doch „Wer“ gab's nur im Singular.	The teacher, though, admitted then that this was not wi- thin his ken. "While bans are fre- quent", he advised, "A she cannot be pluri- zed."
El brujo se volvió muy triste: "Mi cara mitad, ¿no la viste?" Ya que no era sa- bio con gratitud se despidió.	The Werewolf knew better—his sons still slept At home, and homewards now he crept, Happy, humble, without apology For such folly of philology.	Der Wolf erhob sich tränenblind – er hatte ja doch Weib und Kind! Doch da er keine Ge- lehrter eben, so schied er dankend und ergeben.	The banshee, rising clammily, wailed: "What about my family?" Then, being not a lear- ned creature, said humbly "Thanks" and left the teacher.
